

THE GLEN COLLECTION OF SCOTTISH MUSIC

Presented by Lady Dorothea Ruggles-Brise to the National Library of Scotland, in memory of her brother, Major Lord George Stewart Murray, Black Watch, killed in action in France in 1914.

28th January 1927.

The change of name from "The English Dancing Master" to "The Dancing Master" coupled with what is stated in it, has being, "enlarged & Corrected from many grosse Errors which were in the former edition" suggests that all the tunes given by Honest John were not English

Does not the change of name, imply that there are other tunes than English ones, contained in it.

In the Introduction (x) to the Popular Music of the Olden Time Wm. Chappell gives the following account of Playford's Dancing Master:—

The first edition of this Collection is entitled "The English Dancing Master: or Plaine and easie rules for the dancing of Country Dances, with the tune to each Dance (104 pages of music). Printed by Thomas Harper, and are to be sold by John Playford at his shop in the Inner Temple, neere the Church doore." The date is 1651 but it was entered at Stationers Hall on 9th Nov. 1650. This edition is on larger paper than any of the subsequent. The next is "The Dancing Master.... with the tune to each Dance, to be played on the treble Violin: the second edition enlarged & corrected from many grosse errors which were in the former edition This was "Printed for John Playford" in 1652 (112 pages of music) The two next editions, those of 1657 and 1665 each contain 132 Country Dances, and are counted by Playford as one edition. To both were added "the tunes of the most usual French dances, and also other new and pleasant English tunes for the Treble Violin". That of 1665 was "Printed by W. G. and sold by John Playford and J. Watkins at their shop in the Temple". It has 88 Dances for the Violin at the end.— The tunes for the Violin were after wards printed separately as Apollo's Banquet, and are not included in any other edition of The Dancing Master. The date of the fourth edition is 1670 (155 pages of music). Fifth edition 1675. and 160 pages of music. The contents of the sixth edition are ascertained to be almost identical with the fifth by the new tunes added to the seventh being marked with * but I have not seen a copy. From advertisements in Playford's other publications it appears to be have been printed in 1680— The seventh edition bears date 1686 (208 pages), but to this an "additional sheet" containing 32 tunes was first added, then "a new additional sheet" of 12 pages, and lastly a new addition of 6 more.— The eighth edition was "printed by E. Jones for H. Playford" and great changes made in the airs. It has 220 pages — date 1690 — The ninth edition 196 pages — date 1695 — "The second part of The Dancing Master" 24 pages — date 1696 — The tenth edition 215 pages date 1698. also the second edition of the second part, ending on page 48 (irregularly pased) 1698. The eleventh is the first edition in the new tied note, 312 pages, — date 1701 — The twelfth edition goes back to the old note 354 pages — date 1703 — The later editions are well known but the above are scarce —

* Sixth edition in the Brit. Mus: is dated 1679

In the Supplement, New Dances never printed before is "Sawney and Jockey" (Corn Rigg) page 69

In his Notes to Johnson's Museum Mr. Stenhouse frequently cites this work, but invariably with the date 1657, as if that was the first edition. He speaks of it as containing a number of Scottish airs; on looking carefully through the different editions I find the following tunes, a number of which however are really English though by writing Scottish words to them they have been incorporated in Scottish song. —

1 A. The bonny broome. (Cowdenknowes)
3 " A health to Betty. My mothers ay glowrin
2 4 Paul's Steeple. (John Anderson)
3 " Stingo. or Pyle of barley. Up in the morning

The 3d Edition of the Dancing Master (1665) contains 42 Tunes more than that of 1652 — Of these, twelve are to be found in the edition of 1695; as I possess a Copy of this, I have not copied them, but subjoin the names — The remaining 10 are copied —

×	Watton-towns End	(1695) 51	×	The Devils Dream —	(1695) 72
	The Twins —	112	×	Smiths Rant —	107
×	What can please —	50	×	New (Royal) Exchange —	38
	Simple Simon —	36	×	Duke of Lorains March —	68
×	Sprins Garden —	34	×	Hunsdon House —	9
×	Aborsenie —	35	×	The Gossips Frolic —	41

The last Tune in the Volume "Sellengers Round" is so unlike that given by Mr Chappell as scarcely to be recognisable. It is in fact a very poor mangled tune, while the more ancient version is excellent — After the Finis. page 132 there follows a collection of 85 "Tunes of the French Dances, and other New Tunes for the Treble-Violin" — (See Continuation.)

The Collection of Tunes for the Treble-Violin mentioned on page 29 is bound in at the end of Dancing Master 1665; although complete in itself, it has formed a portion of a larger work, for it is paged from 33 to 60. — On page 33 there is a very good drawing of a Violin with an explanation of the mode of tuning it, then a short Preface — "The Violin is an instrument here much used by reason it is both cheerful and delightful to the hearer, and may in a short time be attained by some directions of an able Master, and a good ear in the Scholar, set for the benefit of practitioners I have set down in my books, called an Introduction to Musick, many easie and useful rules for those that practice this instrument of the Treble Violin; and for more certain to the same I refer you to a set of Musick newly printed, Intituled Courtly Masquing ayres of two parts for the Tr: Vi: & the Basse, composed by several Excellent Masters, both of which are to be sold by Johan Playford and Zach: Williams at their shops in the Temple" —

The first twelve are French Dances, chiefly Corants. - "La mourisor" - "La Vinnone" - &c

On a flyleaf of the 7th Edition (1686) Mr. Chappell has written as follows:

I have collated the 5th Ed: of the D: M: with this. It contains the same tunes up to page 160 and ends there. — I assume the 6th Ed: (16—) to be exactly the same as the 5th because the following Index contains a Table of the New Dances added to this 7th Ed: which have this mark * before them; and all after page 160 have that mark except "Staggins' Jigg" p. 164. which probably should have it also (W.C.)

Sept: 24. 1883. Sut: Sta: Hall. an addition to the Danc: Mas: Cont. 2 Sheets with 24 New Country Dances.—

I have also collated the 4th Ed: 1670 with this; it contains the same Tunes as to page 155 and ends there. (W.C.)—

Note by Mr. Chappell to the Edition of 1690 – the 8th –

The Tunes in this edition from page 195 to 211 inclusive were printed at the end of some copies of the D. Mast. of 1686 and after the first supplement – I suppose these copies to have been issued in 1689, as the word "Finis" occurs four times; first at p. 208; secondly at the end of the 32 pages unpaged, ending with Duke of Grafton's March; Thirdly, at the end of a new additional sheet of 12 pages; and fourthly, at the end of "A new addition to the Dancing Master" of 6 pages – This would make a supplement for each year intervening between the editions of 1686 and 1690. –

Eleventh Edition 1701 —

Advertisement — To all Lovers of Country-Dancing, and the Healthful Recreation of playing on a Violin or Flute —

Gentlemen, This Country-Dance Book, with many additions of excellent new Dances used at Court, and Play-houses, and other Publick Meetings, is by great Labour and a Painful Charge at last done in the new Tied Note, after the manner of Prick-ling; more Intelligible than ever, being the Eleventh Edition, containing double the number of Dances that was in the former, and the price advanced 6. only, which is 3s for the Book Compleat.

There is now in the Press and will be speedily published, the Book to universally known by the name of Apollos-Banquet; being the 8th Edition, retaining the Title only but is now filled with the choicest and newest Ayrs of all movements that are made, and are be much more useful and cheap than formerly, having newer Instructions to it according to the the present method of Bowing and Gracing: done by the best masters. Besides it contains six times the number of Ayres, what you will find in the little Engraven Books, and yet is sold at the same price 1s 6d. — (than)

Note: I have taken care that in these two, and the rest of my books, as near as I could, that you have not the same Tunes twice over.

(The usual Preface is signed) H. P.
